30th Anniversary Winter Beer Taste

The Phinney Neighborhood Association is celebrating 30 years of annual winter beer tasting! While it might not quite be winter yet, it is never too soon to enjoy these seasonal brews. The event starts at 7pm, but if you get there at 6:15pm and donate a little extra ($25), you'll beat the lines and enjoy the benefits of their special preview tasting. For the main event, there are 10 tastings, chosen from over 35 breweries and cideries, as well as pub snacks and a silent auction of beer-lovers' regalia and gifts. What better bribery than wintery brews as a way to give back to your community? (Phinney Center Blue Building, 7-10pm, $35.)

8th Annual Cascadia Cheese Festival

I don't know about you, but cheese is one of my vices. I will do almost anything for cheese, including leave the house before noon on a Saturday. Central Co-op is hosting Pacific Northwest cheesemakers for their 8th Annual Cascadia Cheese Festival. This is a unique opportunity to experience where cheese comes from, how to make it, who makes it, and -- most importantly -- to eat cheese! (Central Co-op, 11am-4pm, FREE.)

Modernist Bread Meets Heritage Rice

Town Hall Seattle proudly presents an evening of cross-cultural carb cuisine! Two famed chefs will share the secrets between the covers of their cookbooks, featuring Korean fusion creations with Rachel Yang and the timeless tradition of bread making with Nathan Myrhvold. For those looking to cultivate creative cookery with a fibery foundation, there will be much to learn from these fabulous gourmands! (SIFF Cinema Egyptian, 6pm, $5.)

Places

Dough Zone Dumplings - Now in Seattle!

Dough Zone provides prompt service and plump dumplings -- a miracle of soup wrapped in dough. After opening their first location in 2014 in Bellevue, they have finally heard our plea and moved into Seattle for dumpling house number five. Besides soup dumplings, they have other fairly priced asian fusion foods, including buns, noodles, and assorted appetizers; all worthy choices for a casual date night or a bustling family gathering. ### Coindexter's - Gamer's Delight!

Coindexter's is a hot spot for pinball games and arcade games, provisioning their players with food and drinks, and nerdy names to match. If you're craving a grilled cheese, their most classic option is called Pong, featuring your simple cheese and bread melt. To get even geekier, order Medieval Madness, which packs blue cheese, bacon, caramelized onion, and apples all between two slices of toast. Beer and booze are available, with specialty crafted cocktail names and equally creative ingredients. Check out this North Seattle adult-gamer's delight any day of the week from 4pm-2am. (Greenwood)
